

Welcome back, chat box!

Chat box returns to front page

By LEMURIA

The Week Without Chat has drawn to a close. The familiar box has returned to the bottom-right of spawn, with chat's usual dwellers celebrating.

Whether the Week Without Chat was a good or bad thing for the Canvas remains controversial.

Not all were happy for its return, however.

Dimka made a userscript that would remove the chat.

And in a rare act, Ziggy, the community's most annoying member, briefly called for the deletion of chat, which some hailed as a "rare

Squinch: So does it end at midnight, or what?

(OP) fp: March 17th

(OP) fp: rate limit is 128 chars per sec

(OP) fp: TOR may be temporarily blocked

Ziggy W".

FP was one of the first few to enter chat, saying in screenshots that he detested Starianna.

The return of chat also revealed some old messages from Mar. 11, showing that FP detested Starianna (which by this point is common knowledge and a sentiment everyone on OWOT shares.)

The first message upon chat's return came from an anon, who simply sent a string of hexadecimal letters, that went "a167289d-b7ab74712b107980add078-da94bddcab".

Spawn remains ratelimited at 128 characters per second, when we tried wiping a large area.

Whether the old 512/s limit will return is unknown, but OWON journalists are hoping so, to allow them to more efficiently combat the sea of slurs that has plagued the canvas during American sleeping hours.

In any case, use chat responsibly or FP's taking it away and never giving it back.

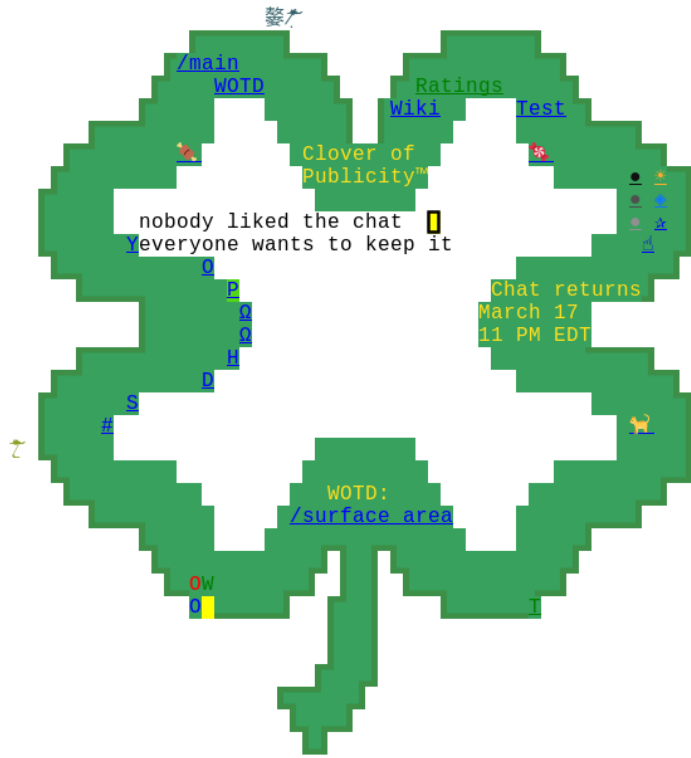

If you hate chat, just don't chat. Use Dimka's userscript or something.

Whether the Week Without Chat was an inconsequential seven-day experiment or what permanently changed the fabric of OWOT remains unknown, but OWON reporters will collate data in the coming weeks to make an assumption.

Thank you for reading to-day's OWON.

Happy St. Patrick's!

By LEMURIA

With St. Patrick's Day (March 17) across the United States, where FP and large parts of OWOT's userbase live, the Square of Publicity has ended up becoming the Clover of Publicity.

The Clover has given the usual front page chat dwellers a warm welcome as the end of the Week Without Chat approached, a day long awaited and dreaded, depending on who you ask. Though there is still some anti-chat sentiment as seen within the Clover of Publicity. Happy Saint Patrick's Day from the OWON newsroom! Do whatever it is you do when you celebrate, though to me the day doesn't have any significance anyway.

Know a FICTIONAL GOOGOLOGIST?

Report it so we can deport it THE FUCK back to where it FUCKING belongs. Say no to Fictional Googology and stop making up random numbers.

We also deport:
Christa spammers, Nazis, Textwallers, Spammers, Wiper abusers, Script abusers, Kids under 13, Starianna bot users, IP grabber links, etc.

The Core ended up being a mess during the night due to insane Starianna attacks, though later FP reverted it.

Annoying FGers Ask Lemuria Not to Run an Anti-FG Advert

By LEMURIA

An unknown fictional googologist, ID 1308, has asked Lemuria to stop running an advert in Our World of News from the OWOT Immigration Police calling on people to report fictional googologists so they could be deported.

Lemuria did not conclusively accept or reject the request, though in global chat a conversation regarding fictional googology.

1308 exhibited the typical properties of an annoying fictional googologist, perpetuating the claim that "most FGers" that "have been causing trouble recently are trolls". In reality, fictional googology is just annoying.

People need to stop making up random numbers that don't exist. Take your fictional googology back to TextWall where it belongs, because it has no place on our Great Canvas.

PENIS SPAM IN GLOBAL

By LEMURIA

The global chat found itself the victim of penis spam yet again. An anon user with the nickname "pp" simply spammed one-word messages, the word being "penis".

Though by 01:00 UTC, Mar. 18, 2024 the spam stopped for a while, allowing a brief conversation to occur in global.

Roughly 30 minutes later the same spammer had come back again, though they were now spamming at a less frequent rate.

Please stop spamming, because at the end of the day, it just makes you look immature.

Minor Health Notice

Lemuria is currently experiencing a runny nose, and has not gotten enough sleep the past few days. Thus, he will probably skip a day of OWON or put out a severely delayed issue.

Readers need to get it through their sometimes-entitled heads that they do not have a right to daily issues and that Lemuria's health has to come first in 99% of circumstances. Unfortunately, a summary of OWOT news is not part of the 1% of circumstances that overrides this.

Also, you can help contribute to OWON! We're always open to advertisements, your own article, and some other things... if you ask nicely enough. Thank you for reading today's issue. I need to go sleep.
